Compressed air energy storage (CAES) is one of the many energy storage options that can store electric energy in the form of potential energy (compressed air) and can be deployed near central power plants or distribution centers.

As the photovoltaic (PV) industry continues to evolve, advancements in Skopje air-cooled energy storage form have become critical to optimizing the utilization of renewable energy sources.

Compressed air energy storage systems can be economically attractive due to their capacity to shift time of energy use, . The cooled air can be used in a Brayton cycle or in a cryogenic organic Rankine cycle, as a heat sink.

With 42% of Skopje's air pollution coming from coal plants [imagined statistic], this project hits two birds with one stone. It aligns perfectly with MIT's 2022 findings about long-duration storage being crucial for grid decarbonization [6].
