In the investigation, an analysis of how the prices of photovoltaic systems affect the Province of Manabí, the methodology used has been the bibliographic review to know as much as possible about what replenishes the costs of photovoltaic systems. Arauz, W. M. S., Cedeño, G. I., Chávez, S. S.

This research concludes that installing photovoltaic systems is financially viable (with a return on investment of less than 10 years) for buildings with electricity consumption exceeding 1000 kWh/month. For lower consumption levels, profitability depends on the installed capacity and the desired.
