Overview

The advanced facility, covering 370,000 square meters in the Salalah Free Zone, will produce lithium iron phosphate (LFP CAM), ammonium phosphate, iron salts, and carbon materials used in electric vehicles, energy storage, and modern electronics.

The advanced facility, covering 370,000 square meters in the Salalah Free Zone, will produce lithium iron phosphate (LFP CAM), ammonium phosphate, iron salts, and carbon materials used in electric vehicles, energy storage, and modern electronics.

Covering an area of approximately 370,000 square metres, the project will focus on producing lithium iron phosphate (LFP CAM), ammonium phosphate, iron salts, and carbon materials used in battery applications for electric vehicles, energy storage, and modern electronic technologies. The facility is.

The first phase of the project will establish a local base for lithium battery materials production. An Oman-based subsidiary of India's InoxGFL Group will invest OR188 million ($489 million) to set up a chemical materials project for electric batteries in Oman. The first phase of the project, which.

Covering approximately 370,000 sqm, the project will focus on producing lithium iron phosphate, ammonium phosphate, iron salts, and carbon materials used in batteries for electric vehicles, energy storage, and modern electronic technologies. The facility is expected to support the staged production.

The project, with a total investment exceeding RO 188 million, will be implemented in phases over 4 to 6 years, with around RO 73 million to be invested in the first phase. Covering approximately 370,000 square metres, the facility will produce lithium iron phosphate, ammonium phosphate, iron salts.

Spanning around 370,000 square meters, the facility will manufacture lithium iron phosphate, ammonium phosphate, iron salts, and carbon materials essential for batteries used in electric vehicles, energy storage, and modern electronic technologies. Gradually, the project aims to support the.

Oman has announced plans for a groundbreaking $1 billion lithium-ion Li-ion battery materials project. This initiative aims to meet the growing global demand for clean energy solutions while providing a significant boost to Oman's economy and workforce. The project will focus on producing critical.
